A LITTLE SPACEY™ Podcast

Down to Earth Stories from Space with Real Astronauts.

Launching Exclusively on The Astronaut Channel™ (YouTube)

NEW YORK, NY, USA, May 3, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Today, uniphigood LLC, is happy to announce the launch of A LITTLE SPACEY®, a new limited series podcast highlighting the role of Astronauts in Human Space Exploration, Pop Culture and beyond with engaging (& fun) storytelling and conversation. The first three episodes will premiere on The Astronaut Channel (YouTube) on National Astronaut Day®, Wednesday, May 5th, 2021.

Space Exploration is one of the most awesome, inspiring, and fascinating adventures known to humankind, and Astronauts each have their own individual perspectives and incredible stories to share. What may seem like a futuristic fantasy to some is actually happening right now, with new developments on a daily basis. These trailblazing human achievements of today are creating an impact to make Space accessible for all, and for generations to come. Come aboard for a fantastic voyage with your hosts, Annie Balliro (Of Another Planet) and Dan Lavery (Down to Earth), for a special limited series podcast as they discuss a wide range of Space tales and topics with real Astronauts. Stars of all kinds will also join in the fun, those that rock, some that have rolled but all who have compelling experiences, viewpoints, and life lessons to share from their time on Earth and beyond. This limited series will feature conversations with real Astronauts and

The idea for A LITTLE SPACEY came about from my conversations with Astronauts, and the answers to basic (and often unintentionally ridiculous) questions I would ask about their experiences in Space.”

uniphi represents an incredible roster of talent in the music, celebrity and lifestyle arena. Our management team has over 20+ years of experience representing clients and projects

The hosts for A LITTLE SPACEY™ are long-time friends and see their role for each conversation as bringing two remarkable guests into each other’s orbit, and then getting “out of the way” (as they like to put it). Annie Balliro is the President & CEO of uniphigood, LLC, uniphi space agency & a founder of National Astronaut Day.

“It is an honor and a privilege to manage Astronauts – true trailblazers, icons and heroes. I’ve always been driven and motivated to find a way to navigate my own path and mission within the cultural and entertainment landscape, to do so by creating a world where commerce meets “good”, and to create a platform to serve talent who can not only entertain and make a living in the entertainment space, but who can truly inspire, make the world a better place just by being who they are, and if we’re lucky, to create movements to benefit us ALL.”, noted Annie Balliro, “The idea for A Little Spacey came about from my daily conversations with Astronauts, of all different backgrounds and experiences, and from the absolutely mind-blowing and entertaining answers to basic (and often unintentionally ridiculous) questions I would ask about their experiences with and in Space. I look forward to sharing these chats and hope that in some small way they will serve to highlight and honor these remarkable individuals.”

Dan Lavery got his B.S. in Electrical Engineering at Rutgers University, then went sideways into the music business. A member of the platinum rock band TONIC since 1996, he has earned two Grammy nominations and multiple awards along the way. He is a music producer, and has also added artist management to his resume.

“Like many kids, at some point, I thought it would be great to be an astronaut when I grew up. As I got older and wiser, I learned all that it takes to become one of the few people to travel into space. I have immeasurable respect and admiration for those fearless enough to accept that challenge, and who reap the reward of the experience of space travel.”, commented Dan Lavery, “Through Annie, I have had the honor of meeting some of these impressive few, even counting some among my friends. I always asked the same questions when I’ve met them, and while the answers are unique to each individual, I always come away with the same feeling: if all humans could experience what they have experienced, we would gain much-needed perspective about the differences and disagreements we have at home on Earth. I hope that through A Little Spacey conversation with astronauts, we might bring some of that perspective and inspiration to the rest of us.”

The A LITTLE SPACEY™ Podcast also features a companion Spotify playlist that includes tracks featuring, and mentioned by Astronauts and Rock Stars, as part of their storytelling experiences and adventures. A LITTLE SPACEY™ Merchandise is also available.
