The Ellen Show is almost always on the television in the afternoon in the Stave shop. While the saws are buzzing away crafting puzzles, their artisans and staff follow Ellen on many adventures. One of their favorites being her endeavor to help endangered species through her fund. As a team, they decided it was time to help. But how?

They sat and puzzled until their puzzlers were sore and came up with a fitting way to raise money for the cause. As the makers of the world's finest handcrafted wooden jigsaw puzzles, they decided there is no better way than auctioning off a one-of-a-kind Stave puzzle as part of their Stave Gives Back Program.

To stay updated on this campaign and to access the link to bid once the auction goes live, please check the Stave Puzzles website and follow them on Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter.

Stave Puzzles, dubbed the Rolls Royce of wooden jigsaw puzzles by Smithsonian Magazine in 1988, makes the finest, handcrafted wooden jigsaw puzzles found in the world today. They have been bringing fun, challenge, and togetherness to families and friends since 1974.
