

Proactis to Enhance their Solutions Portfolio with Aurachain Low-Code Platform

Aurachain low-code platform has been chosen to deliver and evolve Proactis solutions much faster than previously possible.

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, May 17, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Aurachain today announced that its low-code platform will be used by the international spend management company Proactis, to enhance their market-leading solutions portfolio.

The Aurachain low-code platform will empower Proactis by making it possible for them to deliver and evolve client offerings much faster than previously possible, enhance their client user experience and reduce the cost of maintaining their code base moving forward.

"The Aurachain platform represents a new and exciting set of possibilities for Proactis, as we look to expand and enhance our market-leading portfolio of international spend management solutions" said Paul Massey, Product Director for Proactis. "The speed at which we can roll out new client services while managing future change cycles will translate to increased agility and certainly enhanced value for our customers."

New and existing Proactis customers can look forward to accelerated rollouts of new services that can be more easily tailored to the needs of specific use-cases. Furthermore, all new Proactis offerings will benefit from a stunning new user experience thanks to Aurachain's delivery of consistent and optimized interfaces, with mobility built-in to every service created on the platform.

"Aurachain is truly excited to have been chosen by Proactis to support the extension of their existing client services portfolio", said Jonathan Wiener, CRO at Aurachain. "We see this as a tremendous opportunity to extend the value of the Aurachain platform across Proactis current and future clients worldwide."
