

Ad Giants Launches a New App Targeting Small Businesses

Ad Giants launches a new online, full-service agency to help small businesses reap the benefits.

DALLAS, TEXAS, UNITED STATES, May 19, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- With over 35 million small businesses in America, marketing has consistently been a challenge for many budget sensitive companies to pull off correctly. "With a very wide variety of powerful marketing tools available online, it can be confusing to know which tool would perform best for my company, so we tried as many as we could afford," says Tom Gray, CEO of Make 48 in Kansas City. "We were at our wits end and we discovered Ad Giants. Our main challenge wasn't the tools, it was what to do with those tools and whether we were actually using the correct content."

"We knew within minutes of speaking with our expert at Ad Giants that this was something we'd never seen, or thought we could afford," says David Finto of Dallas, Texas, owner of Finto Bridal Cleaners. "Ad Giants actually took my business model from a local dry cleaner, and helped me transition into a new area I love, focusing on bridal gown cleaning and storage" said Finto.

The company has distinguished itself by giving a free marketing plan and two 30-minute consultations to anyone who registers, all at no cost. "We want to put skin in the game for our customers, and allow them to experience why Ad Giants is unlike so many other options," says David Farmer, Ad Giants CEO. Customers can connect using the app, or, online with their expert.

And unlike other popular marketing resource sites that presents a wide variety of talent you can connect with, the Ad Giants model has this completely built-in to the app and system, streamlining the entire marketing process.

The reactions from businesses have been consistent, and the company is gaining traction through local Chambers of Commerce all over the US. "I knew in my gut what these smaller businesses were lacking, the challenge was creating a process and system so we could deliver the highest quality service, with proven experts and the best fulfillment partners we could find, while keeping pricing where everyone could afford it," explained Farmer. "Where else can a small business get a person with this level of experience, at this price, with a seamless process, all online and in an app to deliver real results?"
