

Man Pledges to Run 120 Miles In 24 Hours

An Atlanta Man sets out on the ultra marathon in support of black special needs children

ATLANTA, GEORGIA, UNITED STATES, May 20, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- One in five children are born with learning disabilities. Breon Thomas is setting out on a challenging ultra marathon to raise awareness and money to support Black special needs boys.

The event held by 1N5ULTRA will take place in Atlanta, GA on June 25 - completing in 24 hours on June 26. Breon Thomas has pledged to run 120 miles from Atlanta, GA to his hometown of Chattanooga, TN. Breon is running this ultra marathon to call attention to black special needs boys and the need for more support in their enrichment and growth.

Breon is committed to this pledge and is motivated by something his grandmother always said to him, "You can do anything you put your mind to." He is hoping the event will benefit the young special needs community.

The 1N5ULTRA ultra marathon has garnered a lot of community support. Sponsors include Never Accept Less, Grind Over Disability, She Trucking, Nothing But Net, See Him Xpeditors and JT Hustlez.
