/EINPresswire.com/ -- Gregory Robinson is producing a screenplay of his moving memoir, Bad, Bandages, Bullets, and Beyond. The project is in cooperation with Filmways Pictures Agency, which will also handle the management of its creative rights. Both Robinson and the agency are currently in the final stages of discussing the last few details of the screenplay creation.

Robinson said in an interview

The film project tells his struggles from being a boy without a father who turned into the man he has become. It was not an easy journey; it was riddled with challenges that threatened his soul. All these things and more will be highlighted in the upcoming screenplay.

Moreover, Robinson will also share the story of family abandonment, homelessness, broken marriages, and PTSD in the script. But it doesn't stop there because the writer believes there is more to life than darkness. He will also depict how he overcame the pain through hope and how he found his way with Y'shua.

He believes that with hope and faith on your side, you can traverse beyond your sufferings. The most important thing is to keep trying to live life the way you want it and never give up. Filmways Pictures and the writer is working hard to inculcate such an inspiring idea in the screenplay.
