Drexel University's Charles D. Close School of Entrepreneurship is partnering with SONSIEL- Society of Nurse Scientists Innovators Entrepreneurs and Leaders to offer nurses the opportunity to acquire the skills vital to developing, presenting,
and transforming ideas into reality, shaping the future of health and healthcare for the better.

The program will run fully online on Saturday, June 5th and Sunday, June 6 from 8:30 am - 2:30 pm EDT on both days.

This first-of-its-kind certificate program will introduce nurses to the principles and actions of new service, product, and process ideation, be it within an existing organization or through startup ventures. This introductory program is for the nurse that wishes to develop and enhance their innovative and entrepreneurial skills by learning how to cultivate a new idea, test assumptions, and rapidly iterate healthcare solutions. Participants will also be introduced to the principles and actions used for new product and service commercialization.
