/EINPresswire.com/ -- THE OPPENHEIMER ALTERNATIVE, written by Robert J. Sawyer and published in the Untied States by CAEZIK SF & Fantasy (an imprint of Arc Manor), has been nominated in the best novel of the year category for the 2021 Aurora Awards in Canada.

Meticulously researched by one of the top authors in science fiction, THE OPPENHEIMER ALTERNATIVE retells the story of the Manhattan Project with a new twist that raises a whole other possible future—not only related to the war, but also humanity itself. Replete with historical characters and grounded science, this a must read for fans of hard science fiction and alternative history.

"Night Folk," a charming and moving short story written by Barb Galler-Smith, was published in the forty-seventh issue of GALAXY'S EDGE magazine (also owned by Arc Manor). The story puts a new twist on supernatural creatures of the night and those who hunt them.

Arc Manor's CAEZIK SF & Fantasy imprint recently brought us Robert A. Heinlein's last published novel, THE PURSUIT OF THE PANKERA, based on a rediscovered manuscript. They are also publishing POWER CHALLENGES, the final novel written by six-time Hugo winner Ben Bova.

Other hardcover titles forthcoming from CAEZIK SF & Fantasy include REBOOTS: THE UNDEAD CAN DANCE by Mercedes Lackey and Cody Martin, SOULMATES by Mike Resnick and Lezli Robyn, and a science fiction romance anthology edited by Cat Rambo and Jennifer Brozek titled THE REINVENTED HEART, which includes stories written by noted female authors in the field, such such as Jane Yolen, Premee Mohamed, Seanan McGuire, and Naomi Kritzer.

The Oppenheimer Alternative

The CAEZIK SF & Fantasy imprint also recently launched CAEZIK Notables, a series of speculative fiction books marking important milestones in science fiction or fantasy.
