BAY AREA PROFESSIONAL HELPS LOCALS KEEP HAIR LOSS SURGERY A PRIVATE MATTER

Here is the background on this release. Discretion may be the goal for Bay Area residents dealing with a personal issue. Early signs of hair loss could motivate one to find solutions for thinning hair before friends and family notice. In fact, Dr. Miguel Canales helped design the ARTAS hair transplantation system to help minimize the signs of hair loss surgery. The surgical robot can carefully extract single hair follicles and re-transplant them with minimal scarring. Women and men living in the San Francisco Bay Area ready to keep hair loss treatments private can find a local team of professionals to help. For these reasons, Silicon Valley Hair Institute has announced a new post on robotic hair transplant surgery.
