"Ashish is a highly experienced technology industry CFO and an incredibly capable global leader. His experience in handling business transformation focused on SaaS and his proven track record of prudent financial controls, building winning teams and operating with stellar corporate governance will be an invaluable asset to IBS Software.

Ashish will focus on maintaining our momentum of profitable growth to a world class product company, thus creating value for our customers, employees and shareholders. He will be a strong partner to the leadership team as we continue to drive our growth, both organically and inorganically," said Anand Krishnan, CEO of IBS Software.

"The way in which IBS Software responded to the global pandemic that affected the travel industry is truly inspiring and it shows the resilience of the company with the wide range of mission critical products it has for its customers. I am excited to join the IBS team during such an important time in the company's evolution," said Ashish Nanda.
