"The studio was a buzz when we composed the beat for "Feel Good". Damian sought out to create a song that would have a dynamic audience connection and make you dance and sing along and "Feel Good", and we came up with a throwback to the 80s crossover reggae/ R&B synth vibe.. and of course Busy Signal rocked the modern dancehall style to the track with an amazing flow. It's bad." — Richard Daley

Fitting to the current social landscape, Feel Good captures the bliss and excitement of living life to the fullest, and enjoying the time we have. The song has harnessed international recognition for its dynamic sound, merging dancehall and reggae into one genre; showcasing the vast range of music lovers that Third World's music resonates with.

"The song "Feel Good" is exactly what the title says, is about making people feel good and don't let anyone spoil the party, don't let anyone bring you down. It's a super song for the summer, after coming off a most depressing pandemic year, it's time to
