Trending Today

Trending Today fills a void in programming and serves as a platform for businesses to help viewers get to know them beyond a commercial or news program.”

Liz Plummer, Executive Producer

Now in its fifth season, the business show reports on the latest business and lifestyle trends, with episodes airing Saturdays at 12:30 pm EST. In addition to two Telly Awards, Trending Today has earned the Los Angeles Film Award for Best TV Series and the Vegas Movie Award for Best Web/TV Series.

Each episode explores how companies and entrepreneurs build their brands as guests share their stories, passion, knowledge, and expertise to inspire entrepreneurship.

Join hosts Jana Angel and Karen LeBlanc, both experienced business journalists, as they travel to the scene of the story— the companies, conferences, and events— to report on the latest products, news, and trends.

The Trending Today team of experienced media professionals includes seven-time Emmy Award-winning Creative Director Brad Bode and Executive Producer Liz Plummer. “The Trending Today team puts their heart and soul into each one of these stories. We learn everything we can about our guests and work to feature them in a way they are proud to share for years to come," says Plummer.

Plummer launched Trending Today eight years ago to highlight businesses and entrepreneurs changing the game in their industries. She saw a void in programming that could serve as a platform for businesses to help viewers get to know them beyond a commercial or news program.

Creative director Brad Bode leads the talented production team, including Director of Photography James Desir, who brings more than a decade of film and TV experience to his cinematic style of storytelling.

"I love traveling around the country with the gifted storytellers on our Trending Today team. Getting to know the people behind the innovation and helping share their fascinating stories is an absolute treat," says Bode.
