Once the right article place is found, it goes to the detail page of the article place. Here, buyers can find the publisher's most important information, such as metrics for rating. After the customer has loaded his account with credit, he can order the article space by clicking on "Book now". Now it's just a matter of matching the content.

For most article spaces, the texts can be written by the customer himself or commissioned from Backlinked. The Backlinked team will accept the booking within a maximum of 72 hours or reject it with a reason.
