

(Video) Iran Election 2021: Nationwide Boycott Shows People's Desire for Regime Change

The regime authorities and state-run media had forecasted low voter turnout, warned about its consequences, and begged people to vote.

PARIS, FRANCE, June 19, 2021
/EINPresswire.com/ -- The Iranian regime's sham presidential election met an unprecedented nationwide boycott. This nationwide boycott underlined the regime's illegitimacy in Iran.

This nationwide boycott underlined the regime's illegitimacy in Iran.

According to reports tallied by The National Council of Resistance of Iran \(NCRI\), and the People's Mujahedin of Iran \(PMOI/MEK\) at the end of the clerical regime's election masquerade, less than 10 percent of the eligible voters cast their vote in the sham presidential election. Based on reports of 1,200 journalists and 3,500 video clips from 400 cities obtained by Simay-e Azadi, the opposition TV network, the polling stations across Iran were mostly empty and witnessed a low turnout.

The nationwide boycott was the result of an extensive campaign by the Iranian opposition, the MEK, and its Resistance Units, who popularized the campaign for the nationwide election boycott.”

Prison officials in Maku, Khoy, Bazargan, and Salmas told prisoners that whoever votes would receive a three-day leave. In some other cities, officials tried to purchase people's votes.

Also, the regime authorities closed some polling stations in Tehran and some other cities to prevent the sparse turnout of very few people and create an impression of mass voter turnout, mainly for western journalists. Dozens of Simay-e Azadi reporters were arrested filming empty polling stations, and their phones were confiscated.

The regime authorities and state-run media had forecasted low voter turnout, warned about its consequences for the regime, and begged people to participate.

The regime's Supreme Leader, Ali Khamenei, was first to beg people to participate in the sham election. On Wednesday, he acknowledged that the "poor segments of the society are discouraged and dissatisfied and don't want to vote in the elections." He also tried to blame the "enemy" for the forecasted low voter turnout and attacked the rival faction. "Some from inside the establishment are trying to dissuade the people. This is wrong. They are spreading hopelessness," he said.

"If [the people] do not participate [in the elections], the enemy will increase the pressure... If the people's presence is weak, the establishment will become weaker, and [the enemy] will threaten the country with insecurity and terrorism," Khamenei warned.

Khamenei's nightmare became true on Friday when millions of Iranians said no to his regime's sham election. Khamenei already knew people would boycott the election farce. The only reason he has pulled Raisi, a notorious human rights violator and wanted for crime against humanity in 1988, was to confront Iran's restive society and the organized Resistance Movement.

The nationwide boycott on Friday was the result of an extensive campaign by the Iranian opposition, mainly the MEK and its "Resistance Units," who popularized the nationwide campaign of the election nationwide boycott. The MEK started this campaign in Iran in early April.

In April, The Resistance Units carried out anti-regime activities in over 250 places in 27 provinces. In May, over 310 areas in all Iran's provinces witnessed the MEK's Resistance Units' activities

Mrs. Maryam Rajavi, the President-elect of the National Council of Resistance of Iran (NCRI) in this regard, said, "The boycott proved and showed the world that the Iranian people's only vote is to overthrow this medieval regime. The nationwide boycott is the groundswell of the martyrs' sacrifices and is a reflection of the Iranian people's great campaign for justice."

As Mrs. Rajavi underlined, the regime is "in a downward spiral and must be swept aside." The recent boycott of the regime's election farce showed Iranian people would continue their efforts to achieve their goal of regime change.
