Athletes, actors and musicians have coaches, the truth is that entrepreneurs and CEOs need an entrepreneur coach. Not everyone knows that some of the top CEOs in the world have famously had a CEO coach to provide that independent sounding board and personalized perspective.

VentureWrench co-creator and Enclavix President & CEO, Nicole Toomey Davis said, "My goal as a CEO Coach is to offer perspective, support and insights to help a CEOs and Entrepreneurs as they navigate both "regular" and unexpected business challenges as well as the ongoing challenges of growth and change."

The new coaching package is structured as a 2 hour video session once each month, as well as ongoing email and messaging support as things arise during a month. The confidential one-on-one coaching is especially designed to help entrepreneurs and CEOs improve on and expand on their leadership capabilities while navigating goals and challenges. Coaching may include help in personal growth, skill mastery, serving as a decision "sounding board", help navigating difficult situations, and discussion of potential plans and strategies.
