Heroes winners being awarded for their hard work!

"I was absolutely flabbergasted that my students felt so strongly about me and took the time and effort to nominate me as a Cinergy Hero," Holly Aguilla, Spanish teacher at the Young Women's Leadership Academy in Midland, said. "I don't know that I'm a hero, but I try to be a positive role model for my students. I hope that I make them feel important, special, and of value every time they come to my class or see me on campus. I want them to know that the things they will appreciate most in life are not the things that may come easy to them, but the things they work for. Effort makes all the difference."

"Cinergy is about celebrating the magic of movies, entertainment, family, and community," Traci Hoey, Vice President of Marketing at Cinergy Entertainment, said. "In the past year and a half, teachers have had to navigate new technology, learn new ways of teaching, and provide new levels of student support as they re-tooled their classroom experience for online learning in the face of Covid. Now more than ever, we recognize them as true heroes who make a difference in the lives of our Cinergy families and communities. That's something to celebrate."

The Cinergy Heroes social media contest is hosted each year in April and May to align with Teacher Appreciation Week. Students and families are encouraged to nominate a teacher with a 30-60 second video explaining why their teacher is a hero.
