BURBANK, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, July 1, 2021

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Representatives of the Akopyan Law Firm announced today that their law firm provides legal help to employees who have been denied paid sick time off by their employers in Los Angeles County and protects the rights of employees to rest and recover.

"In California, eligible employees are entitled to paid sick time off," said Michael Akopyan, founder and partner at the Akopyan Law Firm, and added, "For those eligible employees whose employers did not already have sick leave policies, this law gives the employees the right to accrue and take paid sick leave."

Akopyan went on to add that to be eligible for sick leaves, employee must meet the following criteria:

- Work for the same employer, on or after January 1, 2015, for at least 30 days within a year in California
- Satisfy a 90-day employment period before taking any sick leave.

Each situation is different though, so the best way for an employee to determine if their rights have been violated is to contact an employment lawyer to discuss the specifics of the case.
