Trends In The Global Carbon Dioxide Industry

Carbon dioxide manufacturers are using advanced carbon capture and storage (CCS) technologies to effectively capture, purify, liquify, and store carbon dioxide. CCS works by trapping carbon dioxide at its emission source and transporting it to a storage site. It is a technology that captures around 90% of the carbon dioxide emissions generated from the use of fossil fuels in electricity production and industrial processes. CCS technologies offer effective method for capturing carbon dioxide, restraining the carbon dioxide from entering the environment.
