Matthew Keezer suggests that you check out these things to do, while you're in Martinique:

- Balata Botanical Garden – In this beautiful and extraordinary botanical garden, just north of the capital of Martinique, you'll discover this incredible attraction. This botanical garden was created in 1982 by the famous landscape architect, Jean-Philippe Thoze. It was built around his grandparents' Creole house and is a must-see attraction for its fabulous array of tropical plants.

- Des Salines – This is considered to be one of the best beaches on Martinique. If you're bringing the family or just want to take it easy, you'll appreciate its calm, clear waters. There are plenty of food vendors along with convenient restrooms and accessible showers. Les Salines is also famous for its glistening sand and miles of palm trees.

- Boat Tours from Pointe du Bout – A popular tourist activity is to take a cruise from the tourist enclave of Pointe du Bont. You can sail on all types of craft that include; catamarans, sailboats, skiffs and cruisers.

Of course, Matthew Keezer would also like to remind visitors to the Azores that they should follow any COVID restrictions, which are currently in place, by looking up current restriction websites.
