Crypto Asset Rating Inc launched Composite Index for Crypto tokens. Crypto Asset Rating Inc is one of the fastest growing fintech companies globally.

NEW YORK, UNITED STATES, July 14, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- For more than a decade now, cryptocurrencies, utility tokens, security tokens have played a significant role and grabbed many financial companies' attention. In 2019, many large institutions started protecting investors from cryptocurrencies; in contrast, some significant exchanges have started providing Bitcoin's derivatives. With the mainstream market infrastructure has emerged, the asset class is now more accessible for institutional investors.

"We are delighted to provide market participants with benchmarks that measure the performance of some of the most popular digital assets. Our composite index will give the comprehensive, granular overview of the market," said Rippy Sethi, Chief Business Development Officer of Crypto Asset Rating Inc,

We launched the Composite index with the focus of launching more indices soon.

1. Composite Index: A composite index is a mixture of all types of tokens.
2. Utility Index: The focus of the utility index is to offer benchmark returns of the utility tokens.
3. Security Index: A security index is to measure the value growth of tokens under asset regulation.

4. Currency Index: The currency index is to measure the performance of top currency tokens.

5. Commodity Index: The Commodity Index is to track the price and the return on investment of a basket of commodities.

The end-user can customize the index. Our Crypto index shall measure the Crypto Market and give investors the proper guidance to compare past prices with the current price level. This way, investors would calculate the market performance rightly and reduce some of the very volatile and speculative market risks.

The index is available on the Crypto Business World, a high-quality media platform. Readers can analyze the market performance based on the index constituent's data and the news and articles related to index tokens on this platform.

These indexes are denominated in USD. Composite Index covers multiple primary tokens and is calculated on its free-float market capitalization. An index is updated with every change in the token value.

The Index is managed by Crypto Asset Rating Inc's Index committee and steering committee. Members have rigor around the index calculations, and after doing thorough research, the financial analyst has selected the best tokens for each of the Indexes.
