

How Parents Can Support Their Neurodiverse Teen in Transitioning from High School to College

If you are a parent to a neurodiverse teen, you may have worried about preparing them to leave the nest. Here's how to help them get ready for independence.

NEW YORK CITY, NEW YORK, UNITED STATES, July 14, 2021

/EINPresswire.com/ -- If you are a parent to a neurodiverse teen, you've been worrying for years about how to prepare your child to leave the nest. College can be a good transition from your home to independent life, plus the education can give your child the career skills they will need to support themselves. But you may worry, is it possible for my child to flourish at school without me? The short answer is yes. The long answer comes in Advice Chaser's latest webinar, "Transitioning from High School to College for the Neurodiverse Teen." The online event begins at 12 noon, Mountain Time, on July 29. To make your free reservation, sign up here.

Advice Chaser, a service which connects clients with the financial advisors they need, will host the webinar. Stephanie Martin, president of College Living Experience, will lead the presentation. She has spent her career working with differently abled and neurodiverse students of all ages, and she knows what students need as they transition into college. Ms. Martin will address topics like:

- How to assess your child's college readiness, and the life skills they need to practice before their first semester

Give your neurodiverse teen the support they need to succeed in college in this Advice Chaser webinar.

- Adaptive programs, both private and through the university, that can support your child during the college years
- Defining “adulthood”—is it getting by without help, or knowing how to access the support you need?
- Promoting your child’s problem solving and critical thinking ability

“Parents of special-needs kids may worry that college requires more independence than their children can handle,” said Megan Coelho, Advice Chaser president. “This webinar should help address those worries and give some concrete tips about how to make sure your child is ready. Ms. Martin has helped so many neurodiverse kids succeed, she’ll give you the confidence that your child can too.”

Advice Chaser Offers Consumers an Easy Way to Find the Best Professional Financial Advisor

Special-needs parenting often requires different considerations to make sure your child succeeds. For help with the financial side of planning for a neurodiverse child’s college funding, Advice Chaser can connect you to an advisor expert in your situation. Book a free phone call to get started today.

“

This webinar will give some concrete tips about how to make sure your child is ready. Ms. Martin has helped so many neurodiverse kids succeed, she’ll give you the confidence that your child can too.”

Megan Coelho, President of Advice Chaser

About Advice Chaser

Advice Chaser is an independent financial concierge service. Our mission is to improve your investment experience by helping you access better financial advice. We listen to your specific needs and goals in order to offer you a custom-tailored connection to reputable advisors. Think of us as a boutique financial dating service.

Unlike other investor-matching services, we do not sell recommendations. Advisors pay to be considered for our select list, but they can’t purchase a place there. We keep only consistently reputable advisors on our shortlist. To see what we can do for your future, see our services here.

Advice Chaser

+1 208-346-3099

email us here

Visit us on social media:

Facebook

Twitter

LinkedIn

This press release can be viewed online at: <https://www.einpresswire.com/article/546196279>

EIN Presswire's priority is source transparency. We do not allow opaque clients, and our editors try to be careful about weeding out false and misleading content. As a user, if you see something we have missed, please do bring it to our attention. Your help is welcome. EIN Presswire, Everyone's Internet News Presswire™, tries to define some of the boundaries that are reasonable in today's world. Please see our Editorial Guidelines for more information.

© 1995-2021 IPD Group, Inc. All Right Reserved.