Analyst's Take on the Market

According to Shammi Thakur, Lead Analyst, MarkNtel Advisors, the outbreak of COVID-19 last year turned out to be an inflection point in the sales of water purifiers across North America, Europe, China, and several other economies. Contrary to the expectations due to negative sentiment caused by COVID-19, the global water purifier market registered robust year-on-year growth in 2020, over 2019. The pandemic pushed residential end-users to pursue a more prominent hygienic lifestyle, which further augmented the demand for sustainable water treatment products. In addition, the entire supply chain of bottled water was paralyzed amidst the imposition of lockdown and stringent movement restrictions, thereby clearly benefiting the sales of water purifiers. The growth of Q2 2020 was less than Q2, 2019, however, massive sales were registered in Q3 and Q4 2020 along with an increasing trend was observed in Q1, 2021 also. The sales via online channels soared exponentially in numerous geographies across the globe

The key countries in Europe, such as Germany, France, Italy, Spain, the UK, Poland, etc., registered an increase in their year-on-year growth ranging between 3%-7% in 2020 over 2019. And, a similar trend is likely to prevail in the forthcoming years.
