

Prove Wins 'Best CEOs for Diversity', 'Best Leadership Teams' and 'Best Career Growth' in 2021 Comparably Awards

Leading phone-centric identity technology company recognized for diversity, leadership, and career growth opportunities

NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES, July 27, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Prove, the modern way of proving identity online with just a phone, today announced that Comparably, one of the leading compensation, culture, and career-monitoring sites in the U.S., honored the company with three new awards: Best CEOs for Diversity, Best Leadership Teams, and Best Career Growth for 2021.

Comparably Award winners are determined by anonymous employee sentiment ratings submitted to Comparably.com over a 12-month period. Prove ranked amongst the top 50 small and mid-size companies in the Best CEOs for Diversity (based solely on ratings given by employees of color), Best Leadership Teams, and Best Career Growth categories, joining other notable brands such as Zoom, Squarespace, and Uber in these award categories.

"We are incredibly proud of these recognitions - specifically about our leadership team's ability to lead without losing sight of the needs of our colleagues during such a challenging time," said Prove CEO, Rodger Desai. "We strive to offer an extraordinary workplace that celebrates and supports the mission of our company and the goals of our employees."

□These awards follow a period of hyper-growth for Prove (formerly Payfone). The company experienced 153% employee growth over the past two years.

“As the world was plagued by the pandemic of the past year, employees needed executives who could lead with strength and compassion,” said Comparably CEO Jason Nazar. “Prove’s multiple award wins is a testament to its leadership team’s commitment to transparency, diversity and career growth.”

“These awards are a testament to the importance we place on our employees’ happiness and growth,” said Brad Rosenfeld, Prove’s Chief Marketing Officer. “We are thrilled and honored to see that the investments we’ve made in these areas are making a measurable impact on Provers.”
