There are two pandemics currently working their way through Western Culture, Covid and mental health. Drug and alcohol addiction are also mental health issues at their core. Poor mental health finds its way through every part of our institutions, economy, and family life.

Plant medicine and psychedelic medicine data are coming into focus and becoming clear that many people suffering from depression, anxiety, and PTSD can benefit from well-structured experiences with these tools.

For centuries, people have been turning to mushrooms as natural stress relievers. Our "De-Stress" mushroom wellness product will be a convenient and delicious way to reap all the benefits that mushroom supplements provide for the body and mind.

DailyLife CBD "De-Stress" product will feature an organic blend of several different medicinal mushrooms, including Lions Mane, Shiitake, Passiflora, Ashwaganda.
