danger. But this serving act is the true example that the best human always stands for others and they ensure they could help everyone and anyone at any given moment of time.

While the authorities were inspecting the incident they found that the pole was wrongly placed near the road diversion and now the instructions are shared with the electricity department to immediately change to spot and ensure that such poles are never been placed near road corners or diversions.

These kind appreciations always motivate others to stand for everyone and to ensure that they don't leave any stone unturned for helping others.

The next day the family and little girl came to website designer Ludhiana office and thanked him for his efforts and his impulsive reaction to save their daughters life and to help them in getting a medical facility as well.

The little girl after this dangerous event was nervous but a day after she gets to normal and started playing with kids of her society. When one is contributing selflessly for others it not only creates a charismatic motivation but also helps and brings others to the same spot too.

Society should learn from this kind of activity and this should be discussed on a daily basis so people could be made aware that if they will help anyone the government will also support them and they will not be held accountable for the acts which they haven't done and they will be recognised for the kind act they have performed.
