National Floors Direct brings 75 years of flooring experience to the table. They help customers find the right flooring choices for their spaces based on the use, traffic, budget, and more. When choosing the right flooring, tile is an excellent option for many different spaces.

One of the most significant benefits of tile includes the value it brings to a home. “When you sell your house in the future, you'll be glad that you chose tile flooring.” “Buyers consider tile and wooden flooring to be premium flooring options for all the reasons mentioned above. This means that you can cover the cost of installing tiles by pushing up the resale cost when it comes time to move homes.”

National Floors Direct says that for the homeowners who are not planning to sell in the near future, the tile still offers a number of benefits that could make it the ideal flooring choice. Choosing a floor that is incredibly easy to clean and sanitize is a considerable benefit. Another advantage is how well the flooring holds up to the typical wear and tear caused by high traffic. These are often essential flooring factors for those who have pets or small children in the home.

Tile is ideal for the bathroom, kitchen, laundry room, and entryway—all areas that may see a lot of moisture, says the company, but it could easily go in any room of the house. “You can use tile in parts of your bedroom or the entire bedroom.” “It also works well in the living spaces, especially if you have pets and need to keep the area clean.”

The flooring company also notes this is a wise flooring investment for property owners that rent out their spaces. They are easy to install and offer a highly durable floor with minimal upkeep. The easy-to-clean-and-sanitize benefit is also helpful for landlords when tenants come and go.

Finally, National Floors Direct goes on to say that tile is an eco-friendly building material. Tiles are made from clay (porcelain or ceramic) or stone, which are all considered sustainable materials that can be recycled.
