Top Gun Heating and Air located in Keller, Texas has aimed to solve price transparency, trust and available equipment shortages with a double pronged approach.

In March 2020 Top Gun launched an easy to shop eCommerce store, which includes an instant estimate tool, which allows consumers to shop fully installed prices for heating and cooling systems online.

“We wanted to give our customers the ability to shop, budget and plan for a new heating or cooling system without having the pressure of an in-home sales rep. We care about our customers and what better way to earn their trust than to be an open book on pricing”
Jon Riddle Owner Top Gun Heating and Air.

This ecommerce platform was so successful that Top Gun ran into equipment shortages. Naturally the team at Top Gun rented a new 2,000 square foot warehouse and began to stock every type of unit and part that their customers may need. This has led to a record setting year for the small veteran owned local business, and the new work keeps rolling in. Even when ac repair parts are backordered from the manufacturer the team at Top Gun Heating and Air find a way to serve the residents of the greater Fort Worth metro.

“I think what set’s us apart from other HVAC businesses is we aren’t afraid to go against the grain to better serve our customers. We have gotten a ton of negative feedback from other local Fort Worth ac companies for publishing prices online, but we keep focused serving our customers
