Highlighting atrocities against Sindhis in Pakistan

WASHINGTON, DC, USA, August 4, 2021

/EINPresswire.com/ -- For the last 74 years Sindhis in Sindh have been controlled by Pakistan. Every year Pakistan celebrates August 14th as Independence Day but it is the darkest day in the history of Sindh.

Sindh is home to a cradle of civilization and a birthplace of the world's biggest religions, lore, philosophers, leaders, artists, and visionaries, which was destroyed by the partition in 1947.

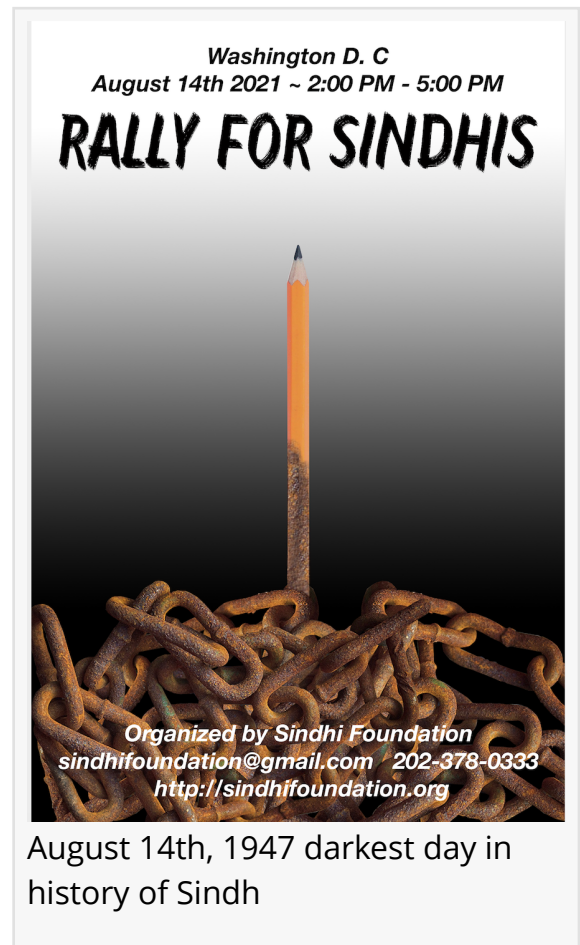

93% of Sindhis had no idea that their people and their homeland would be uprooted, with no say in the creation of Pakistan. Sindhi identity has been threatened, with the language, culture, and heritage being destroyed.

"Pakistan's agencies kidnap Sindhi people, disappear them and brutally kill them, they abduct young Sindhi Hindu girls to convert them, marry them off against their will." said Munawar Laghari

The United States has been giving the Pakistani military billions of dollars for years. Pakistan uses these funds to continue military occupation, enforced disappearances, torture and suppression of Sindhis. Pakistani military has a total of thirteen military cantonments in Sindh. It has not put basic civil rights laws in place to protect religious minorities, women and children. At least 40-60 Sindhi Hindu and Christian girls are kidnapped and forcibly converted to Islam each month.

Now Pakistan's all-weather friend China is getting strong hold in Sindh.

"Pakistan is taking lands of Sindh, sea, river, forests, mountains and Sindhis can not even cry

A poster for a rally. At the top, it says "Washington D. C" and "August 14th 2021 ~ 2:00 PM - 5:00 PM". Below that, in large bold letters, is "RALLY FOR SINDHIS". The central image shows a single yellow pencil standing upright on a pile of rusty, broken chains. At the bottom, it says "Organized by Sindhi Foundation", "sindhifoundation@gmail.com 202-378-0333", and "http://sindhifoundation.org". Below the poster, it says "August 14th, 1947 darkest day in history of Sindh".
