According to the new market research report 'Nebulizers Global Market
Report 2021: COVID-19 Implications

And Growth To 2030' published by The Business Research Company, the nebulizers market is expected to decline from $1.67 billion in 2020 to $1.04 billion in 2021 at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of -37.7%. The change in growth trend is mainly due to the companies stabilizing their output after catering to the demand that grew exponentially during the COVID-19 pandemic in 2020. The market is expected to reach $1.55 billion in 2025 at a CAGR of 10.5%. The rise in the geriatric population is anticipated to propel the nebulizer market growth.

The nebulizer devices market consists of sales of nebulizers used in respiratory care for patients with respiratory diseases including asthma, cystic fibrosis, and COPD. The sales consist of revenues generated by establishments that are primarily engaged in the manufacturing of breath-actuated and vented pneumatic nebulizers, portable and standalone ultrasonic nebulizers, and static and vibrating type mesh nebulizers.

Trends In The Global Nebulizers Market

The technologically advanced nebulizers including breath-enhanced, breath-actuated, and vibrating mesh nebulizers decrease the amount of drug lost during exhalation while increasing the efficiency of drug delivery and shaping the nebulizer devices market. For example, in June 2020, Respira Technologies, a health technology platform development company, revealed the introduction of a pharmaceutical-focused commercial development program for its RespiRx drug delivery system. Respirex is a compact, vibrating mesh nebulizer built for local and systemic
