Panelist Rollie Vincent of Rolland Vincent Associates is creator of JETNET iQ in collaboration with IADA Products and Services member JETNET.

At the public webinar, the panelists will address aircraft pricing, availability of inventory, the causes of seemingly lower supply, and when availability will balance out. The NBAA (National Business Aviation Association) webinar, sponsored by Mesinger Jet Sales, will also answer a number of key industry questions, including:

Is the scarcity of available inventory causing price hikes?

How are supply chain delays hampering transaction timing?

Does the preowned market follow suit with other inflationary products affected by supply chain issues?

“When the aircraft transaction industry wants answers to the large questions of the day, they turn to the experts at IADA,” said IADA Executive Director Wayne Starling. “Tony and Todd are recognized industry leaders and their insights always prove valuable when buyers and sellers of aircraft look for solutions to the issues facing successful transactions.”

The NBAA News Hour Thought Leadership Series is scheduled for 10 a.m. Central Standard Time, Wednesday, Aug. 11. To register, go to Webinar: NBAA News Hour: Business Aviation's Elephant in the Room – Buying Aircraft by NBAA (bigmarker.com).
