Dawrishi's aforementioned success in the hospitality industry is very well known, with Palazzo Versace Dubai serving as the biggest proof of this.

The hotel's unparalleled customer service satisfaction rate, inherently charming structure, and excellent brand image is indubitably a result of years of dedication and excellent management, and speaks volumes to the managing partner's leadership, guidance and personality.

Approximately four years ago (in 2017), Monther Darwish decided to transition from his business partner position to the managing director at the Palazzo Versace Dubai hotel.

This was because- as a successful entrepreneur, he quickly realised the hotel's prolific potential if it was handled correctly.

Monther Darwish illustrated his industry-leading expertise during the unprecedented COVID-19 pandemic, which affected the hospitality industry disproportionately- exacerbating an already poor economic period.

Whilst a variety of hotels were forced to shut down, Darwish introduced new, innovative initiatives that temporarily transformed Palazzo Versace Dubai- allowing it to operate remotely.

From 2020, his team started to quickly integrate captivating digital guest events- which allowed customers to experience the beautiful and breathtaking Palazzo Versace Dubai world without having to risk their own personal health or break any government guidelines in the process.

After receiving the prestigious Young Business Leader of the Year award by the Sheikh of the United Arab Emirates, Monther Darwish delineated the immeasurable "pride" he felt, not only due to the rare and reputable nature of the award, but also due to the fact that it was directly awarded to him by his Highness Shaikh Mohammad bin Rashid Al Maktoum himself- a man that he "truly admires and looks up to".

He takes significant pride in his ability to connect with a variety of persons from all over the globe- regardless of their racial or economic background, and organise a plethora of unique, unforgettable experiences for them.
