About:

A rising talent in Hip Hop, Big Bounce grew up on the west side of Chicago, moving around in the Austin Area. Being raised in a family of five kids, where the music never stopped playing, Big Bounce acquired a taste for Jazz from his father. After marking his journey into music, creating music early on in sixth grade, the growing artist first heard himself recorded with a tape, and a microphone connected to a karaoke machine at his friend Kareem's grandparent's house.

Although not much, Big Bounce was driven to pursue his musical passion, instilling within people a fun vibe, with his own original musical compositions. Being creative and having fun soon ignited a burning passion for music within him, and Big Bounce decided to pursue his music even more seriously, inspired by his family members and neighborhood cohorts' own musical explorations. Currently, the artist is looking forward to the release of his upcoming Hip Hop album, which recounts honest experiences.
