AirConsole is broadening their footprint in the APAC zone with a new partnership with WeWatch in Cambodia, Singapore, and Indonesia. Their agreement will enhance the customer experience by bringing the gaming platform to WeWatch SuperBox customers.

The roll out of our AirConsole multiplayer game platform on the WeWatch SuperBox shows the growing interest of Operators and OTT players in gaming as a new service opportunity”

Anthony Cliquot, COO and Head of Partnerships at AirConsole

After seeing one of the greatest growth spurts in gaming in 2020, the trend has been on a steady incline, compelling content platforms to add gaming to their offering. WeWatch is addressing the growing need of cloud-gaming by providing every user with a video game console inside their set-top box. All users need is a WeWatch SuperBox, and their own smartphones as gamepads. No additional hardware is required.

“We are committed to providing innovative, quality and entertaining content to our viewers. We are pleased to partner with AirConsole and offer entertainment and educational games,” Said Ms. Sarah Xiaohua Wang, CEO of WeWatch Pte Ltd. “With over 170 games already on our platform, people can now spend quality time with their family and friends at home. We are currently under license in Singapore and Cambodia and will expand to Indonesia soon. ”

The new partnership will bring over 170 AirConsole games to the WeWatch platform, with countless competitive and collaborative local multiplayer games to challenge your friends or family in your living room. This will allow WeWatch customers to have more choice when picking a pass time on their box. The AirConsole experience is already available on the web, Amazon FireTV, Android TV and select TV operators worldwide.

“AirConsole is thrilled to partner with WeWatch in their mission to bring premium content to their users in Cambodia and in other regions of SouthEast Asia.” says Anthony Cliquot, COO and Head of Strategic Partnership Development at AirConsole. “The roll out of our multiplayer game platform on the WeWatch SuperBox shows the growing interest of Operators and OTT players in gaming as a new service opportunity, and we look forward to working together to make this launch a success ”
