"We continuously track users' activity on InnMind, analysing the top sectors and stages of startups that open funding rounds. And keep our focus on engaging verified VCs on the platform, informing them about potential deals, as well as attracting new ones that match the portrait of the startups. The combination of these efforts helps us to make better matches between startups and investors on the platform and facilitate more deals. After the summer time, which always results in slowing down the investment activity, we expect to double the number of successful VC deals in Q4", - Nelli commented.
