They rose to prominence with their latest documentary "As Organism". It has won over 20 awards from festivals around the world including Best Documentary Short (30 min), Best Web/TV Series Pilot, Best Sound Design, Best Editing and Best Producer. Here's the synopsis.

Join Rachel Sellers and Alan Watts for a journey in scale from the subatomic world to the edge of the cosmos as they open your eyes to the possibilities of the universe as a single organism. Discover the range of patterns that design the world around us and the mathematical properties inherent in the building blocks of everything we know.

We must learn how to understand our perceived enemies point of view and figure out how to get along with each other or there's little hope for society and civilization as we know it. We are in the midst of a global societal collapse and it is important to show films like this so we can possibly slow it down and maybe even stop it before its too late. STOP HATING PEOPLE BEFORE YOU MEET THEM. Please?

The film is free for anyone to watch and make their own conclusions. Here is the link:
