John has led NGIF through growth and in its four years of raising capital, making investments, growing its portfolio and building companies, the firm has approved financing to over 40 startups, de-risking clean technology solutions in Canada's gas industry. He has been integral to building NGIF's team and its reputation in the innovation and venture capital community, taking new companies and their ideas from concept to commercialization.

John's additional contributions to innovation include occupying numerous board functions and duties. He currently sits on the Board of Directors of the $100 million Clean Resources Innovation Network (CRIN) and is a member of the International Gas Union's Research, Development, and Innovation Committee.

In recognition of John's advancement of innovation in cleantech, World Biz Magazine recently awarded him third place on its global Top 100 Innovation CEOs of 2021.

John was also selected to join the exclusive group of business luminaries who have graced the cover of World Biz Magazine; an honor exclusively reserved for leaders reshaping industries.

World Biz Magazine's Top 100 Innovation CEO Awards celebrate business leaders across the globe that are making major strides in their industries.
