From value-oriented to luxury, state-of-the-art smart appliances, and personalized lines with options in color, patterns, trims, hardware, size and configurations, there is something for everyone's tastes and entertaining needs at AjMadison.

AjMadison has supported this area of Florida for several years, partnering with leading builders and developers, as well as assisting homeowners with comprehensive online retail services. After watching the web traffic grow in the Miami area, AjMadison chose the new Sunny Isles location for its vibrant new development and high growth potential.

"The importance of gathering with family, friends and community is as powerful today as it was when we founded AjMadison twenty years ago," states Michael Gross, the chief executive officer of AjMadison. "We have seen incredible advancement in smart technology and energy efficiency from leading manufactures, making life far more comfortable and entertaining easier, in our homes and outdoors as well. Customization is another elevated option that defines today's appliances and helps us each express our own sense of style across the country. We're thrilled to be opening our third showroom in Sunny Isles to celebrate our 20th anniversary. AjMadison looks forward to working with our new neighbors and trade partners to bring the best new appliances to their homes."

Today customization has more to do with the functionality of the appliances. For example, prostyle ranges offer multiple burner configurations with gas, griddles, grills, and even induction zones. Multipurpose appliances are taking on more important roles, such as a speed cooking oven that can bake, roast, toast, broil, and microwave. Instead of investing in multiple appliances to take on small, specialized tasks, AjMadison is showcasing appliances which pack a greater variety of functions and features, including refrigerators that have more options for customizing the style, layout, shelves, and temperature.

AjMadison's Miami showroom will feature multiple unique kitchen vignettes affording guests an intimate design and shopping experience to better understand how today's modern appliances can truly be personalized for the perfect kitchen. Visitors can explore options to match appliances to a favorite trending pantone color to individualize their kitchen. AjMadison also has expertise in outfitting yachts and recreational vehicles with kitchen and laundry solutions for comfortable cruising.

"Consumers today are very savvy in researching the merits of new appliances," explains Devoree Miller, the general manager of AjMadison. "The public is more familiar with leading brand choices thanks to the advertising campaigns in national magazines and social media platforms. Online reviews of products can also easily be accessed on the Internet. However, an educated consumer continues to benefit from our knowledgeable team at AjMadison when comparing across brands for the best value at their desired price point."

What began as an online business 20 years ago, grew into the leading online retailer of appliances, a 16,000 square-foot showroom in Brooklyn, New York servicing the tri-state area, with more than 2,000 trade partners, and professional catering to homes and businesses nationwide, with over 2.5 million customers.
