announcement is the latest in a series of moves by ValueHealth CEO, Don Bisbee, as part of ValueHealth's continued advancement as an industry leader.

“The combination of business knowledge and healthcare expertise brought by Mr. Zeringue and Ms. Pozek supports ValueHealth's innovative foundation and growth,” said Bisbee. “We will continue to bring value to our patients and partners through our strong team of industry recognized ValueHealth leaders.”

Vincent Zeringue joins ValueHealth as General Manager, ValueHealth NovaCore. In his role, Mr. Zeringue will oversee the development of new hyperspecialty NovaCore centers and growth of ValueHealth's Bariatric ACE program. In addition, he will focus on partnerships with payors and providers to bring value-based bundled contracts with warranties to the marketplace.

Mr. Zeringue brings significant experience to this position with more than 25 years in the healthcare space, focusing on growth strategies for leading med-tech, healthcare service companies, and private equity firms. His extensive accomplishments have positioned him as a nationally recognized expert and business development consultant for surgical services and creating value-based prospective bundle episode offerings. During much of his career, Mr. Zeringue has focused on the highly specialized fields of obesity, bariatric surgery care, spine disease, general surgery care, and the rapidly evolving health insurer marketplace, including accountable care, population health management, and value-based healthcare. He holds years of experience as a successful hospital administrator and a history working with and benefiting Value-Based Stakeholders, including Health System based ACOs and Medicare Advantage Plans.

Brenda Pozek joins ValueHealth as Vice President, Project, and Partner Operations. In her role, Ms. Pozek will be responsible for development of new surgical centers through scalable, best-practice project management and operational processes, and driving business intelligence.

Ms. Pozek comes to ValueHealth with over 18 years of project, program, and operations management experience. Most recently, she led a consulting organization of 115+ associates at Cerner Corporation and was responsible for implementation strategy, project delivery, client relationship management, and ongoing operations. In her previous roles at Cerner, she also led client implementation projects and supported the business development process through professional service pricing strategy and complex implementation planning. In addition, she directed strategy and execution of product documentation and communication, and managed client product feedback tools and processes.
