customers to buy branded premium quality garments, which in turn, has led to the increased demand of fabric softener/conditioner to maintain the fabric quality, thus driving the growth of the fabric softener/conditioner segment.

Based on application, the residential sector occupies the largest fabric wash and care market share of over 40%. The adoption of these products has been gaining popularity among the residential users owing to the availability of a wide range of affordable detergents and fabric conditioners. Additionally, the growing demand for liquid detergents among the households, owing to the comfort and ease they offer over the conventional washing soaps and bars, supplements the market growth.

North America generated the highest revenue in 2015, and is projected to remain one of the dominant markets throughout the analysis period. However, Asia-Pacific is expected to witness the fastest growth rate, owing to emerging economies such as China and India.

Global players such as Procter & Gamble, Hindustan Unilever Limited, and Henkel AG & Co. KGaA have launched innovative fabric cleaning and care products to expand their market share. In addition, these players have launched ecofriendly fabric softeners and detergents to cater to the needs of customers.
