Wise Agent's goal with the power dialer integration is to help real estate agents get through calls quickly and efficiently while never leaving their CRM platform.

"Picking up the phone and calling your database has always worked in real estate, and I have always said - conversations create clients," explains Wise Agent CEO Brandon Wise. "Now more than ever before, many people are craving a conversation, so the timing of this addition to our CRM couldn't be better."

Agents using the real estate power dialer have the flexibility to make calls through a mobile device or a computer for more accessibility and efficient note-taking.

The power dialer's key automation features, such as recorded call-back and voicemail messages, allow real estate agents to complete multiple call sessions. With the added ability to record calls and track call history, Wise Agent members will have a comprehensive call history of prior conversations right within the CRM.

"Communication is more important now than ever before. Wise Agent's new built-in power dialer is the most effective and efficient tool REALTORS® can use to speak with leads and contacts," adds Spencer Harman, President of WAVV. "You can dial, update notes, listen to recordings, and more without having to go to a different tool... all of it lives inside of Wise Agent's CRM. This is a no-brainer for successful REALTORS®."

REALTORS® now have an easy, intuitive way to connect with contacts and leads while staying organized throughout the process.
