While the Federal Solar Investment Tax Credit (ITC) and 1-Year, 100% Modified Accelerated Cost Recovery System (MACRS) have been important drivers in reducing costs for companies going solar, many other rebates and incentives exist for state, municipal, and utility levels.

Recently, Florida Public Services Commission approved Demand-Side Management \(DSM\) plans and programs. Depending on the parameters put forth by the different Utility Companies the following load management programs may be of excellent benefit for businesses.

Commercial Demand Reduction (CDR) is a load management program that reduces system peak demand during capacity shortfalls or system emergencies.

By reducing power usage during these periods, CDR helps delay the need for expensive, new power plants while providing participating businesses the opportunity to substantially reduce their electric bill through monthly credits. Mirasol's engineers will design systems, so that customers can benefit from these incentives whenever possible.
