Buckley Ratchford said his ties with PRIVO clients through active investing and his understanding of the need for age verification and children’s privacy protection drew him to PRIVO. “PRIVO is the best-in-class Safe Harbor for kids and parents seeking to increase engagement while ensuring that kids are safe in these communities,” he said. “I am making it my personal mission to protect kids and have a special interest in young people especially women receiving equal access to gaming environments, educational platforms and social communities without the fear of being bullied.”
