“Our stories are about hope, inspiration, motivation, and encouragement. Great book to review and talk about for Suicide Prevention week and month and any other mental health awareness. Helping people to speak up and out so they can heal is invaluable.”

—Lynda Sunshine West, inspirer of this amazing collaboration

“During my journey, I have encountered feelings of being invisible to that point that, even if I was on stage, I felt alone. Those feelings of disbelief about myself led me down a lonely path. At age 51, I made the decision to reach out for help and found a life coach who led me on a journey of facing fears and realizing I have value. From that moment, I realized I have value. My entire life changed and I moved into a place of invincibility.

Lynda Sunshine West, 11X bestselling author, speaker, executive film producer, philanthropist

“If this is you, then you know what I’m talking about. Well, you’re in the right place because these authors are just like you.

“My goal—which is shared among all of the contributors to this book—is to add all of our collective advice to help you grow and move yourself into the space of feeling invincible. When you feel invincible, nothing can stop you from achieving the life you want to live. We want to see you accomplish all of your dreams and goals and flourish.”
