PENNSYLVANIA, U.S.A., September 8, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Historically African American women have had a harder time accessing the proper beauty supplies needed for daily hair and beauty needs. Maureen Washington and Cynthia Childrey-Hameen, the team behind MoBeauty Supply Vending Machines and Top 5 Luxe Beauty, have combined the convenience of vending machines and the demand for accessible black beauty products in a place where they would be used and appreciated.

The First Beauty Supply Vending Machine To Go Into A HBCU

Earlier this year Cheyney University of Pennsylvania became the first college to welcome a MoBeauty Vending Machine to its campus. This new vending machine conveniently brings natural hair care products to the student body. As one of America's Historically Black Colleges and Universities, Cheyney University was the perfect fit for the first Beauty Supply Vending Machine from Mobeauty Supply Vending.

In A World Full Of Trends
Vending Is Classic.”

“As someone who is passionate about her community and the beauty supply business, I was thrilled when Marcia Brown from Cheyney University expressed her interest in setting up these machines on their campus. This is just the beginning for HBCUs and for the future of black-owned enterprises.”- Maureen Washington
