

Remote Work Creates Employee Engagement Challenges - Professional Recognition Will Help

TORONTO, ON, CANADA, September 21, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Most employers and employees have developed ways to set up effective work areas and benefited from the adoption of enhanced technology since the start of the COVID pandemic. On the other hand, employee engagement has become more of a challenge for many. Remote work has made it more difficult to have employees feel connected and fully engaged with their team.

Recognition Certificates can be a very effective part of the HR engagement toolkit. When they are professionally done, they convey genuine appreciation and recognition to individuals and teams.

Inevitably, they become treasured keepsakes that are proudly displayed in homes and offices.

The St. James Paper Company introduces a turnkey "Ready to Present" solution in addition to its "Ready to Print" products.

They have made the process quite simple. Using a digital press, the recipients' names and the client's recognition message are merge printed on standard or a customer specific certificate design then inserted in a certificate holder or frame. The finished products are shipped "Ready to Present".
