'I Built This' is an outward-facing workforce development initiative that exposes youth and young adults to opportunities within the industry through dynamic handson experiences. The Miami event will be hosted at a Target store currently under renovation at 5800 South University Drive in Davie, Florida. The goal of the event is twofold; to address a lack of diversity in the industry and examine how the pipeline can be filled with diverse new talent.

"Our mission at ConstructReach is to increase the visibility of the construction industry by educating students about career opportunities, connecting general contractors to interns and innovative internship curriculum, and creating content, experiences, and a ConstructReach social network to expose diverse populations to construction careers," said Paul Robinson, founder and CEO of ConstructReach. "Fifty-three percent of skilled trade workers are over 46 and will be retiring. 'I Built This' introduces diverse students to construction opportunities to work towards changing those statistics."

Since its inception in 2018, ConstructReach has hosted a series of impactful events uniting more than 600 students, brands, and general contractors throughout the nation. Note: CDC guidelines will be followed during the event. Masks are mandatory for all event participants and facilitators. A variety of snacks and boxed lunches will be provided to all participants.

ConstructReach works with students, educators, high school counselors, large brands, and general contractors throughout the country to ensure they have the information and connections they need to facilitate the long-term longevity of a new, more diverse construction industry. ConstructReach started efforts with more than 100 general contractors throughout the United States but is currently adding additional general contractors, expanding companies, educators, and students to its network.
