Hemingway recommends Manhattan Book Group to authors: "If you're looking to get your book published professionally, look no further than Manhattan Book Group. There's a reason Manhattan Book Group is rated the #1 independent book publisher in New York City -- they're the best of the best. I recommend them without reservation."

Manhattan Book Group is independently owned and operated by #1 bestselling author J.J. Hebert. He launched the company to give authors without agents a chance to get published by a New York City-based

"Mariel Hemingway has been involved in book publishing for years and she understands the value that Manhattan Book Group brings to the table," said Hebert. "We strive to make book publishing easier and more streamlined than ever through our hybrid offering."

Mariel Hemingway is an Oscar nominated actress, with about 60 acting credits to her name. She is also the granddaughter of Ernest Hemingway, the Pulitzer Prize-winning novelist. Mariel is a bestselling author of several books, and she is a mental health advocate, appearing on Oprah's SuperSoul program and producing Running from Crazy, a documentary examining her personal journey as she strives to understand her family's history of suicide and mental illness.

every stage of book publishing, from book design to editing to distribution and marketing and publicity. The renowned book publisher advertises an author program created by its founder J.J. Hebert. The program promises to help accepted authors earn media coverage from major outlets such as NBC, CBS and FOX, among others. Manuscripts that pass the Manhattan Book Group vetting process also appear on national bestseller lists. For more information on publishing a book, go to
