one of the fastest growing complete technology solution providers in the U.S., just announced that, for the 12th year in a row, it has been named to Crain's List of the Largest Privately Held Companies in the Chicago area—moving up eight places in the last year alone.

ITsavvy President and COO Munu Gandhi attributes the company's continued growth to factors that include a strong client base, outstanding personnel, and a suite of technology solutions that deliver on the promise of digital transformation. "Above all, our drive to provide outstanding client service has been the key to our growth," Gandhi said. "Our clients look to us to help them accelerate time to value in delivering their business outcomes."
