

KAYCHA LABS RECEIVES COLORADO DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH AND ENVIRONMENT HEMP LAB CERTIFICATION

Kaycha Labs is pleased to announce its Denver lab has been certified by the CDPHE to conduct mandatory industrial hemp compliance testing.

FORT LAUDERDALE, FL, UNITED STATES, September 21, 2021 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- Kaycha Labs, a leader in cannabis and hemp testing technologies, is pleased to announce its Denver lab has been certified by the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment ("CDPHE") to conduct mandatory industrial hemp compliance testing.

Colorado is now requiring industrial hemp producers that wish to manufacture and market their products in the state to complete a full panel of tests with a "CDPHE Certified Lab." The required full panel tests include potency, microbial contaminants, pesticides, heavy metals, residual solvents, and mycotoxins.

Our Denver lab has been serving the Colorado cannabis and hemp market since 2014, ..., we view the CDPHE certification requirements as an overwhelming positive for the industry.”

James Horvath

James Horvath, Kaycha's CEO, highlighted, "Our Denver lab has been serving the Colorado cannabis and hemp market since 2014, and one of the longest tenured labs in the state, we view the CDPHE certification requirements as an overwhelming positive for the industry. Through the agency's vigilant and rigorous surveillance, everyone benefits by knowing that they can have confidence in our published findings." Stephen Goldman, Kaycha's Denver-based Chief Science Officer, added, "Through the state's high standards and oversight, we believe Colorado consumers benefit. In the end, it's all about safety and we have and will continue to be committed to performing comprehensive and accurate cannabis and hemp testing services.”
