NEW YORK, NY, USA, September 21, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Prominent entertainment attorney Jake Levy is pleased to announce the debut of his new law firm, Levy Law PLLC. The full-service firm at 40 Worth Street in New York City will provide entertainment industry clients transactional law counsel relating to television, film, podcasts, digital media, literary publishing and music, as well as branding and endorsement matters.

I founded Levy Law to combine the superior personalized service of a boutique firm with the industry experience necessary to make cutting edge deals across the entertainment landscape.”

Jake Levy, Founding Partner of Levy Law PLLC

The boutique practice will be helmed by Jake Levy, who has over 15 years’ experience representing both individuals and companies, including award-winning documentary and narrative filmmakers, directors, actors, producers, series creators, literary authors, and broadcast journalists, as well as leading production companies, media agencies, financiers, and distributors. Notable clients of the new firm include Kelly Ripa and Mark Consuelos’s Milojo Productions, Part2 Pictures, A24 Documentaries, NBA All-Star Gilbert Arenas, directors Amy Berg and Chris Moukarbel, publisher Slate and many more.

“I founded Levy Law to combine the superior personalized service of a boutique firm with the industry experience necessary to make cutting edge deals across the entertainment landscape,” said Jake Levy, Founding Partner of Levy Law PLLC. We are proud to represent a roster of award-winning clients, and look forward to helping additional creators and innovators bring their passions and projects to life.”
